Our group was able to complete all specified components of Milestone 2. We set out to integrate the Spotify API into our app, allowing users to log in with their Spotify credentials, populate the app with their personal data, and create the settings tab where the user could specify the distance of concerts they were served. We were able to add all of this functionality to our app, removing the dummy data from the previous milestone. We now populate the Profile, Home, and Discover tabs with the user's profile and top artist information from Spotify.

In order to log in to the app, we have to approve new users manually through the spotify developer API. If you need access to view this, please let us know and provide the name/email attached to the spotify account for us to update it. .
